CPAs & Business Advisors

Industry Experience

Manufacturing and distribution companies must address a wider diversity of business issues than virtually any other industry, competing against intense domestic and international competition. Operational concerns are significant, including developing leading-edge products, maintaining competitive pricing, managing inventory, replacing outdated equipment, delivering on schedule, providing superior service, and reducing a wide variety of costs. Each decision has an impact on cash flow, which is the life blood of most manufacturing and distribution companies.

HMWC CPAs & Business Advisors understands the various financial and operational challenges facing today's manufacturing and distribution companies. We have built an extensive manufacturing and distribution practice, with a team of accounting and consulting professionals focused on serving your unique needs. Our team of experts focuses on a proactive approach when working with clients, versus a more traditional retrospective view of a company's performance. We offer a wide range of services that help you to succeed in today's business environment. For example, we develop successful strategies to reduce your costs, manage inventory more effectively and increase profitability.

Our tax professionals are fully abreast of all California, multi-state, Federal and international tax laws that may impact your business. We continuously keep our clients informed of opportunities to minimize taxes. As a member of Integra International, we have both a national and international presence, which provides us with additional resources to consult on a variety of state and global tax and business issues.

We have served a wide variety of companies, including manufacturers and distributors of sheet metal, electronic components, plastic molding, roll-up doors, furniture, tool makers for aerospace manufacturers, and bags for fast food restaurants.

At HMWC CPAs & Business Advisors, we develop and implement effective solutions for your company's business concerns.
